By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
GENEVA (AP) — The Big Four foreign ministers today recessed their conference, until July 13 without breaking the East-West deadlock on Berlin.

Western officials forecast a new Soviet drive for the summit following the failure of the talks. They said Soviet Premier Khrushchev is trying to frighten the Western powers into a summit conference instead of offering concessions on Berlin as a lure to the West.

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Tamm and other Western diplomats are reported to have decided two weeks ago that this was Khrushchev's strategy. Western interest in breaking off the negotiations here dates from that time. The West came to Geneva believing it held one trump card — Khrushchev's desire for a summit meeting.

Argentina Rebels Seek a Change

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Rebelious military forces today pressed President Arturo Frondizi for drastic changes in policies and threatened to oust the President if he refused.

Leaders of the revolution which toppled Juan Peron in 1955 gathered increasing support for a showdown with Frondizi, whom they accused of letting porcupine and communists infiltrate the regime.

There has been no open revolution or fighting but the armed forces are putting pressure on the President in an apparent showdown.

A wave of rumors, including one that Frondizi had tendered his resignation, swept the capital. A presidential spokesman, newly appointed, said: "We have lots of rumors."

Authoritative sources said the country's top military commanders were in a huddle at the War Ministry seeking "a legal solution" to the crisis.

San Marino in Debt, So U. S. Is Helping Out

By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federico Bigli, secretary of state of San Marino, said his 15,000 countrymen are in debt about 2 million dollars. So naturally we have been helping them out.

We are building a new aqueduct for this smallest and oldest republic in the world, and I guess the $850,000 this costs won't add very much to our own national debt, which at latest count stood at $285,893,636,678.005.

Meanwhile Congress is tackling ask-for additional help but to say thanks for what he's already got. On the other hand, he hasn't specifically offered us any help either.

But he'll be around for a couple of weeks yet and maybe if it is put to him right he will suggest something.

Meanwhile Congress is tackling our budget problem on its own. What it is doing is amending the law to let us go deeper in debt. See No Alternative.

Have to do so, said Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.), chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. Mills told the House Rules Committee there's no alternative, except maybe to quit spending more than we take in. Nobody, apparently, saw any immediate prospect of that.

Rules members agreed with Mills that this was bad. So did Rep. Jim Wright (D-Tex.), who proposed furthermore that something be done about it.

Wright has a bill to make annual payments on the debt. What he wanted was permission of the rules committee to offer this bill on the House floor as an amendment to one from Ways and Means, raising the legal limit on how far we can go into the red.

Under Wright's plan at least one per cent of the debt would be paid off each year, and he proved conclusively this ought to be done.

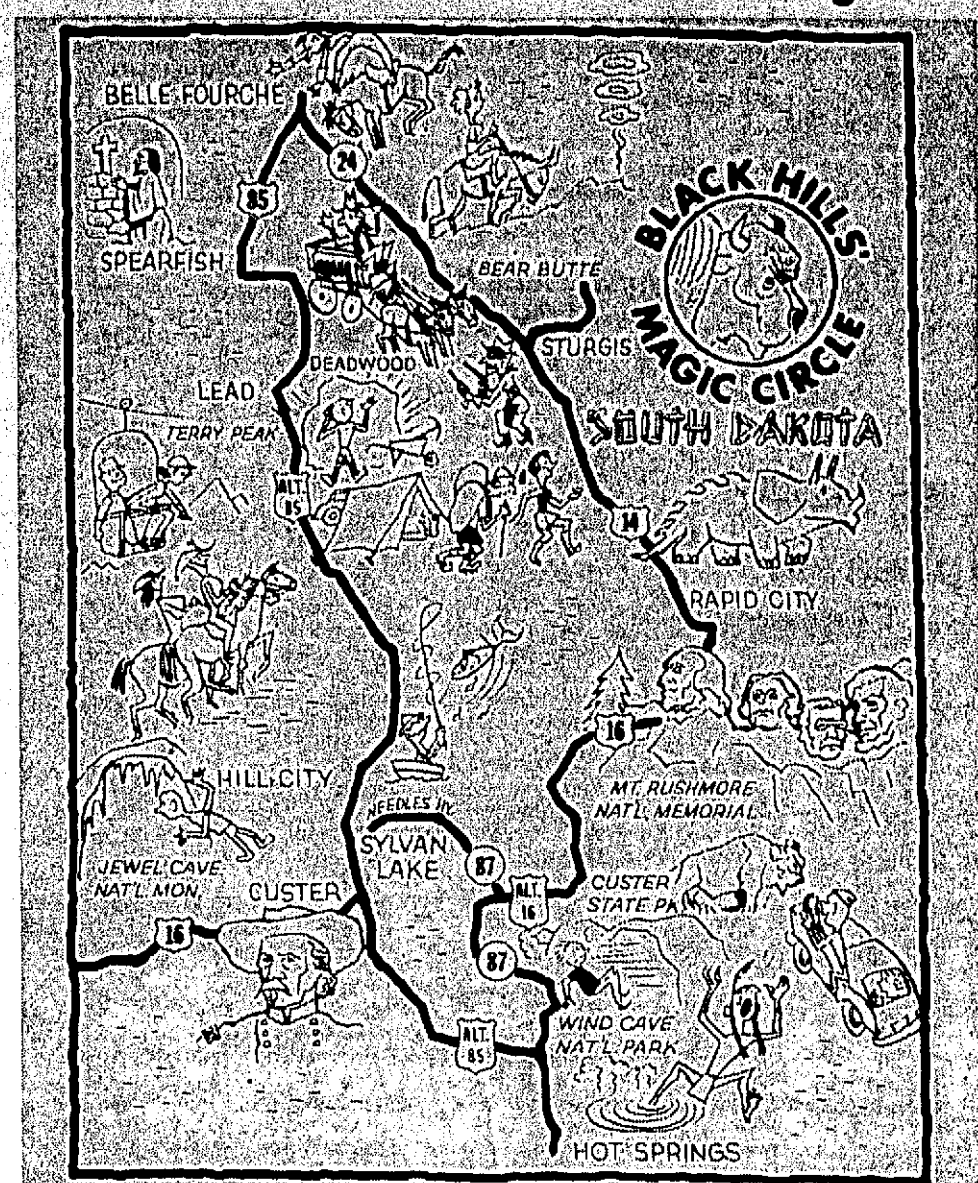

Others Back Plan
Specifically, Wright said if we just keep on paying the interest, like we've been doing, for the next 100 years, this will cost 463 billion dollars more than would be needed for interest and principal.

Black Hills of South Dakota Spell Mystery for Tourist in the Land of Indian Legends

MAN AND NATURE

have joined forces to make South Dakota's Black Hills an unforgettable setting for vacation fun and excitement. The Magic Circle trip starts from Rapid City with its "Geology and Indian Museums and Dinosaur Park." Enroute is Sturgis, for a burrito-ride up historic Bear Butte; Belle Fourche, capital of a cattle empire; Spearfish, home of the celebrated "Black Hills Passion Play"; historic Deadwood, which roars again to delight visitors; Lead, where you can visit Homestead, largest gold mine in America; Custer, starting point for trips to Jewel Cave, Wind Cave National Park, Hot Springs spa and Custer State Park, famed for the largest buffalo herd in America. Climax of the Magic Circle trip back to Rapid City is "Mount Rushmore National Memorial, where the faces of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt have been sculptured in heroic proportions on the 6,000-foot granite mountain.

Editor's Note: This is the 29th in a series of suggested highway tour maps which the Hope Star is publishing weekly. This is excellent material to cut out and paste up in a scrapbook for future reference when planning your vacation trip.

By EDWARD COLLIER

Cowboys, culture and scenic novelties combine to make a magic circle trip around South Dakota's Black Hills playground an always-remembered vacation experience.

It's easy to believe the legend that this phenomenon of nature is the burial place of Paul Bunyon's great Blue Ox. But, factual-minded geologists say these mountains are among the world's oldest — predating even the Alps, the Rockies and the Himalayas.

The soil color has nothing to do with their name. Even the Indians called these mountains "Paha Sapa" meaning "black hills" because approaching them from a distance, the heavy pine-covered slopes are dark.

Scenic and man-made wonders, deep lakes, good fishing and hiking and horseback trails characterize this area, which is crisscrossed with excellent roads. Historical monuments of gully living, daring desperadoes, hardworking sheriffs, courageous pioneers and marauding Indians add to the patchwork quilt of vacation fun.

Gateway City
Rapid City is the natural gateway to a Magic Circle tour of the Black Hills. For "rock-hounds" the South Dakota School of Mines' Museum of Geology on East St. Joe Street comes first, with its displays of ores, minerals, gems, geological formations and an exhibit of prehistoric life from the nearby Badlands National Monument.

The U. S. Indian Museum houses a fine collection of personal belongings of such well known chiefs as Crazy Horse, Sitting Bull, Red Cloud, Yellow Hand, Bull Foot and Roman Nose. Of particular interest is a picture calendar drawn on a buffalo hide, dating back to 1790.

Washington Community Group Plans 2nd Annual Homecoming Event on Independence Day

Sees Reds as Real Fear of the World

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Craig Hosmer (R-Calif.) today suggested the impact of H-bomb warfare would be less destructive to the free world than yielding to Communist forces.

Hosmer said an outline of the alternatives would be developed at nuclear war hearings scheduled next week by a Senate-House subcommittee on atomic radiation.

He said the hearings should bring out data to compare the price of nuclear war and the costs of surrender.

"I have no doubt that the price of capitulation will be shown by far the most costly," he said.

Rep. Chet Holifield (D-Calif.), the subcommittee chairman, told a news conference the hearings were called to clarify "the probable effects of nuclear weapons and their aftermath in the event of their employment in war."

Missile Fired From Jet Bomber

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A test version of the Air Force's new B-47 jet bomber fired today from a B-47 jet bomber.

The plane blasted the rocket from beneath its wing at a height of about 35,000 feet. The missile left a long trail of white smoke as it sped over the Atlantic.

The Air Force, which prefers to keep this air-to-ground weapon under wraps, announced only that a research and development missile was fired.

Newfoundland Host to Royal Couple

By BELMAN MORIN
GANDER, Nfld. (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip flew here today to open a new $3½ million dollar airport terminal building. Gander is a stopping point for transatlantic airliners.

A Royal Canadian Air Force plane landed them after a 45-minute flight from St. John's, the provincial capital.

The Queen, opening a six-week journey across Canada, confronted one of the most grueling programs in her hard-working reign. She received a cordial but restrained welcome at St. John's Thursday.

Cafe Robbed of $350 at L. R.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Police reported the Green Korner Cafe here was robbed of about $350 by a lone Negro gunman today.

The robber forced an employee, Mrs. Clara Graham, and three customers to lie on the floor as he fled. Police said the loot included $300 from the cash register, $30 and a wedding ring and engagement ring from Mrs. Graham's purse and about $20 from a customer's billfold.

The Washington Community Accomplishment Club has announced that its second annual July 4th Homecoming event will be held again this Independence Day. Commenced in 1958, somewhat along the lines of a former homecoming event held in Washington, and discontinued with World War II, the celebration is held in connection with the program originated by the Washington Restoration project to recreate some of the community's historical past. Last year's event drew some hundreds of people from over this section of Arkansas and some from out-of-state.

In announcing the 1959 event, Mrs. Charles A. Haynes, president of the Community Accomplishment Club, cited some of the progress made by the Restoration group during the year.

Commencing with the gift of the property known as the Abraham Block house, owned for the past half-century by the family of E. C. Catts of Atlanta, Ga., which gift was made late in 1958, considerable progress has been made in the complete restoration of this site.

The first project mainly because of there being a building from which to make a start, and the fact that this house is to be used as the headquarters building for Washington Restoration Foundation.

Funds for the restoration of this house came principally from a banquet honoring Arkansas' Governor Faubus two months ago, and from some specific contributions to the construction fund.

This property, to be hereafter designated as the Black-Catts house in honor of its builder and its donor, will be opened for the first time to the public on July 4.

It is being restored as nearly as possible to conform with the original plan and furnishings. The original brass hardware has been retained and put back in service and the missing portion of the lacework on the upper balcony has been restored.

Some accomplishments during the year have been the acquisition of the site where the original Bowie Knife was given by heirs of the late Mrs. Charleston Moss Williams, well known South Arkansas historian; and also additions to the Tavern property by the heirs of the late Carl Von Jagersfeld. This now places much of the historical property of the community into the hands of either the City or the Restoration Foundation, where it is readily accessible for development as rapidly as funds become available.

With completion of the Black-Catts house the next project on the itinerary of the Restoration program is the commencement of the famous tavern so well known in the history of the Southwest.

Although actual rebuilding is still somewhat in the future, Mrs. Haynes stated that part of the program for July 4th would be the groundbreaking ceremony for the tavern.

No formal program is being planned for the 4th, but all of the historic spots will be open with a

Debt Limit Is Raised for 6th Time Under Ike

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE
WASHINGTON (AP) — For the sixth time since President Eisenhower when the budget already is 13 billion House has passed a bill raising the ceiling on the national debt.

This time it is a pentecost top of 285 billion dollars. That was exceeded only by a temporary ceiling of 300 billion dollars during World War II, but the actual debt then was smaller than it is today.

Grumbling and blame-laying, House members Friday sent the booster bill to the Senate by a vote of 255-117. There it is expected to run into further opposition, but pass in the end.

Heavy House opposition meant protests in both Republican and Democratic parties over increased government borrowing at a time when power would endanger the lion dollars in the red.

House leaders who backed the bill noted that some nay votes were cast by members who have been among the strongest supporters of big spending measures.

Some of the fellows wanted to claim at least one economy vote on their record, one Democratic leader observed.

It was the third time in the past 18 months that President Eisenhower has requested a raise in the debt ceiling.

House leaders said that a fiscal emergency exists, and that failure to vote the Treasury more borrowing power would endanger the government's credit and solvency.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark), floor manager of the bill, said the bill must become law by midnight June 30 if the government is to meet obligations falling due in excess of the present debt limit.

The 285 billion top is a temporary one-year ceiling. It would revert to June 30, 1960, to a new "permanent" limit of 285 billion. It is expected the Treasury will seek another temporary rise at that time.

The present permanent limit is 233 billion. The present temporary limit, in effect until June 30 of this year, is 238 billion.

The actual debt currently stands at around 286 billion dollars.

Democrats blamed the situation on the administration's tight money policy. They said it restricted credit and contributed to the 1957-58 recession.

Republicans blamed what they called Democratic "spenders and budget busters."

Some members of both parties urged mandatory budget balancing and annual payments to reduce the debt.

Family Fuss Ends in One Person Dead

CORNING, Ark. (AP) — One man was shot to death and another was wounded near Peach Orchard last night as the outgrowth of a family quarrel.

Deputy Sheriff Wild Rice identified the slain man as Charlie Morris, 56, of Poe, Mo., and the wounded man as William Graham, 56, of Broome, Mo.

Claude Gearhart, 79, Morris' father-in-law was held here without formal charge.

Morris and Graham, who was not wounded dangerously, were shot outside Gearhart's home, 3½ miles west of Peach Orchard.

Rice said he was told the trouble started over Morris' estranged wife, the daughter of Gearhart, who has been staying at her father's home. Morris had threatened to force his wife to return to Missouri with him, Gearhart said.

Rice said Gearhart related that he fired three times after Morris stood outside the house and shouted, apparently to Mrs. Morris, "If you don't come out, I'll throw dynamite in the house."

Gearhart was quoted as saying that Morris started crying, and when he reached "three," the older man fired.

Gearhart ran outside the house and fired two more shots from a shotgun. The first shot, a deer slug, struck and killed Morris.

The latter two shots struck Graham, who had driven to the Gearhart home with Morris. Gearhart said he thought he was still shooting Morris.

Graham was wounded in a knee and an arm and shoulder.

Rice said Morris was struck as he was climbing over a fence outside the Gearhart home.

The deputy said he found no dynamite in Morris' pickup truck.

New York Firm Is Low Bidder

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Legnano Corp., of New York was apparent low bidder yesterday for a contract for installation of two power transformers at Bull Shoals Dam in north Arkansas.

U. S. Engineers received a total of nine bids. The Legnano firm's successful bid was $22,742.

Father of Local Man Went From Carpentry to Success as a Maker of Fine Violins

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Not all violin makers were from a little village in the mountains of Italy. One of them lived no farther from us than Prescott.

J. Ellis King, the late father of Frank King of Hope, was born in Santa Fe, Mo., which is now part of Kansas City. In time he moved to Southwest Arkansas and, also with the passing of leaves from the calendar, his rheumatism gnawed his carpenter work to diminish in size, but not in quality.

From building houses he went to cabinet making and then he began doing work that could be handled in a stilling position. News of his skill with woodcraft soon spread, and a real challenge presented itself when a friend brought him a sackful of violin pieces and asked him to put the instrument back together again.

The finished product was a lovely violin that had been made in Scotland and which today is over 100 years old. The fact that Mr. King had succeeded with his first effort at repairing a violin enticed other people to seek his help in fixing their instruments.

At his son Frank's home today some 15 instruments of his can be found. About half of them were made outright by Mr. King, and the rest were rescued by him from the oblivion of dust, broken pieces, mildew, and rat holes. How well this Dr. Kildare of the violins did his work can be seen in the following story.

When a certain lady from Hot Springs saw the work of the Arkansas violin maker, she was so excited over a certain Amati model that she offered to exchange her own violin, valued at $200, for it. The craftsman was startled, but not badly. If it was worth that much to her, then he could probably get an even better price, he reasoned.

Such was not the case, though, and when Frank King showed the precious old rescued relic to a music house in Chicago, he was told that it was "just another fiddle." Whatever secret language the violin and its fabled admirer had shared fell on deaf ears from then on.

Another repaired instrument had gone through the Civil War in the possession of a southern soldier. Years later, a descendant found the broken and battered violin with the soldier's name, "Harris," carved into the wood.

With the skill of the woodworker, the Stradivarius model again became a thing of beauty.

Through his work with violin repairs, Mr. King learned much about actually making violins, so he was able to construct some instruments completely. The wood used was usually of two kinds — either birch or "curly" maple and either spruce or Norway pine.

His earlier efforts show that he knew nothing about purfling the edges of a violin. But he learned through practice, and the results are seen in his later work. A fine example of his best skill is the Stainer model which he cleaned, repaired, and returned to its original glory.

Though this word picture has not been painted with the assistance of one of the great violins which J. Ellis King made from chinaberry wood, it is hoped that more people now know that Southwest Arkansas had a violin king and it was not in name only.

Mental Tests in Rape Case Planned

BENTON, Ark. (AP) — Prosecuting Atty. Lawson Glover said today he will ask mental tests for two white men charged with the alleged rape of a 21-year-old Negro girl near here.

Glover identified the men as Ben Sanders, 26, of Fayetteville, near Little Rock, and Bobby Burnett, 21, of Little Rock. He said they are accused of raping Verna May Taylor of Little Rock Saturday afternoon.

Glover announced the charges in a prepared statement which identified Sanders as a former mental patient at a state hospital.

Glover said the man picked up the girl on the pretense of baby sitting for Burnett, who is married but has no children. The girl told Glover the men released her after the attack and she caught a ride to Little Rock, where she notified authorities.

Dysentery Strikes at a Hospital

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The infection that made 108 persons ill — including many doctors and nurses — at Philadelphia General Hospital has been diagnosed as bacillary dysentery.

Dr. Sylvan Fish, head of the City Health Department community disease division, said today laboratory studies turned up the organism causing the dysentery.

A hospital spokesman said the outbreak is dying out. Dr. Fish said the best guess is that the disease was carried by milk.

Chiropody Assn. Names Officers

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. W. J. Thomas Jr., of Memphis was chosen president-elect of the American Chiropody Assn. at the final session of the group's annual convention here yesterday.

He will take office a year hence. The new president is Dr. W. C. Cigerich of Hot Springs.

Dr. C. A. Roberts of Sherman, Tex., was elected secretary.

West Makes Concessions From Start

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The big Three Western Allies, although stopping short of a complete breakdown, have made major concessions to the Russians on Berlin. In fact, the West has made concessions from the start.

It was more than six months ago that Premier Nikita Khrushchev told the Allies to get their troops out of West Berlin or he would turn over to the East German Communists control of the supply routes to the city, he Allies could have said then:

"We say. Now let's see you make good on your threats. If you try force it will be met by force."

Instead, to avoid a conflict which might lead to war, the United States, Britain and France suggested to Russia that all four try to negotiate a peaceful settlement. (The result was the foreign ministers meeting in Geneva.)

The next result — after six weeks of these talks — has been more concessions by the Allies, this time as the talks seem to be reaching a climax which may bring some kind of settlement or blow up the whole thing.

From the beginning the Allies have insisted they had a right — stemming back to World War II agreements — to keep their troops in West Berlin. Although that city is 110 miles inside communist East Germany, its inhabitants are tied to the West German government.

If they didn't get out — and refusing to get out is the most important point on which the Allies haven't backed down — then, according to Khrushchev's warning, the East German Reds would take control of the supply routes to the city.

This meant the Allies — who refuse to recognize the German Communists as the lawful government of East Germany, a Soviet satellite — would be recognized.

But once the Reds controlled the supply routes, they could squeeze the city, unless the Allies were willing to use force to stop them, by cutting down on the supplies allowed to go through.

This would threaten the city's economy. If large-scale unemployment followed, as it probably would, the present stability of the city would be shaken. All these things the Allies faced.

So, although the Russians had started all this and although the Allies had insisted they had the right to be in Berlin and have free access to the city, these are some of the concessions the Allies made this week.

1. They demanded a Soviet guarantee of their right to get into and out of West Berlin and to keep the city supplied — by rail, road and air — even though East Germans controlled the routes.

By this proposal the Allies dropped their earlier demand for a specific Soviet guarantee of their continued right to be in Berlin as an occupation power.

2. The West said it was ready to accept control of its traffic to West Berlin by the East German Communists, although the West would continue to hold the Russians responsible for keeping the supply lines open to all traffic to Berlin.

Thus the West was attempting to keep the East Germans in the category of mere Soviet agents, not a sovereign power. Nevertheless, the Allies actually would have to deal with East Germans whom they said they would not recognize.

3. The West did not ask the Soviet Union to agree to Allied occupation of Berlin forever. Thus in a sense they were yielding to Soviet pressure, since they were not telling the Russians they'd leave, if ever, only when they pleased.

Instead, the Allies wanted Moscow to agree to their staying in Berlin until all Germany is unified — this seems so far off it was in effect asking for agreement to an indefinite stay — or until some new agreement is reached.

The next move was up to the Soviets who seemed to be thinking hard on what to say now since the Allied concessions, in world public opinion, were obviously an effort to avoid a violent showdown.

Battle Is on in Louisiana for Control

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana officials were at loggerheads today as to who was the state's chief executive since Gov. Earl Long indicated he may be plotting another court battle to free himself from court-ordered treatment in a mental hospital.

Gov. Jethro P. French, a friend of the 63-year-old ailing governor, said he wants legal advice before formally taking over as acting governor. Secretary of State Wade Martin Jr., a political enemy of Long, said he would continue to challenge Long's right to take over without formal certification of Long's inability to act.

"Governor Long has been irresponsible for some time but there has been no legal declaration of that," Martin said.

Long called for legal counsel from his ward at the Southeast Louisiana Hospital at Mandeville, 55 miles to the east of this capital city where he and his brother, the late Huey P. Long, began thriving on peopery politics in the 1920s.

State police and sheriff's deputies overpowered the cursing, fighting governor Thursday night and rushed him to Mandeville. A physician and a psychiatrist said he suffered from paranoid schizophrenia — delusions of persecution.

Long had just stepped out on an agreement for voluntary treatment in New Orleans. The agreement had nullified a Texas court fight by effecting his "voluntary" release from a California psychiatric clinic. He had been held in the clinic 10 days by court order.

Martin said he would challenge French in court if the 63-year-old former president of the Louisiana State College attempted to act as governor.

French said he would not shrink his duty if an emergency develops. But the white legal advice before formal legal action.

Atty. Gen. J. B. Grammon said French could take over. He said he agreed, saying, "That's the order that sent Long to Mandeville. I did not declare the governor's inability to act. Long himself or some official body, Martin said, first must certify Long's inability.

French named Grammon as one of his attorneys.

Martin was ousted by Long in 1950 as state insurance commissioner, custodian of voting machines. Since then the two have been bitter enemies.

Long's request for legal aid was announced by Jesse J. Banks, state director of hospitals.

"Louisiana mental health laws give the patient certain legal rights and privileges," he said.

There was no comment from Mrs. Long, who sanctified the commitment papers both at Calveston and Mandeville.

Park, an interesting admission attraction, where the pages of history are turned back several million years with exact cement replicas of the 80-foot Brontosaurus, the destructive Tyrannosaurus Rex, the horned Triceratops, the "small" Stegosaurus dinosaur, and the duck-billed Platyodon, as awesome and scary sights against the cobalt sky.

North of Rapid City (U. S. 14) is Sturgis where time out for a burro ride (up nearby Bear Butte, geological wonder and sacred Indian shrine, offers the reward of a sweeping view of the surrounding country. Sioux medicine men sent smoke signals from here; it also was a landmark for pioneer wagon trains.

Cow Capital
Continue north (State 24) to Belle Fourche (meaning "beautiful fork"), a husky young city that is home of the Black Hills Roundup. Here, in the early days, there was the often deadly feud between cattlemen and sheepmen. Today it is good dude ranch country. East of town, at Orman Dam, there is fishing for walleye pike.

The Magic Circle turns (U. S. 85) to Spearfish, home of the celebrated Black Hills Passion Play performed Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings through the summer months. Transplanted from Germany in its original form, it found a permanent home here in 1937.

Then on to historic Deadwood (U. S. 148-85), lustiest of the area's 1870 boom cities. As you stand in tabbed Mt. Moriah Cemetery near the graves of Wild Bill Hickok and Calamity Jane, and look down into Deadwood Gulch, it isn't hard to conjure up the lurid atmosphere of the roaring frontier days.

Main Street follows the contours of the gulch, with the houses clinging to the steep hillsides. Down there in Number Ten saloon, Marshal Hickok died—the only time he sat with his back to the door. He held a poker hand of aces and eights; ever since it has been called the "dead-man's hand."

Prize Gold Mine
A short three miles takes you to Lead, for a visit to Homestake, largest gold mine in America, where more than $400 million worth of the precious ore has been removed. Four states are visible from the ski lift at nearby Terry Peak.

From Lead on South (Alternate U. S. 85), along the backbone of the Black Hills, the country is good for fishing, camping, hiking Strawberry Hill, Roanib Lake, Pactola and Sheridan Lake.

South of Hill City, one of the most ambitious sculptures ever attempted is being hewn out of an entire mountain. The blasting and chiseling is for a gargantuan monument of Sioux Chief Crazy Horse, astride his Indian pony. The 600-foot carving, said to be largest in the world, will take 30 years to complete.

Next is the town named for General George Custer, best known for his "last stand" at the battle of the Little Bighorn. Oldest city in the Black Hills, Custer is the starting point for many fascinating side trips. The museum in connection with the Game Lodge is most rewarding.

A quick side trip to Jewel Cave National Monument (U. S. 16), a small but iridescent cavern, appeals to those who wish to experience primitive cave conditions. The walls are lined with sparkling dogtooth calcite crystals fit for a queen, opalescent with colors from pale yellow through bright crimson.

Beautiful Cavern
Back to Custer you continue south (Alternate U. S. 85) to Wind Cave National Park, most widely known of the many caverns in the region. It gets its name from the freakish air currents which blow alternately in and out of the mouth of the cave, presumably affected by the barometric pressure of the outside air. The unique beauty comes from symmetrical boxlike formations, rarely found elsewhere in the world.

To the south is Hot Springs, a well-known early spa, which Indians used for centuries before the coming of the white man for rheumatic and arthritic conditions. It still offers fine swimming and bathing.

The Magic Circle turns north from Wind Cave National Park, for a drive (State 87) through verdant Custer State Park, widely known for its great herds of buffalo, deer and elk; also as a wild-life refuge for blue herons, cranes, cormorants and the little known water ouzel. Stay in your car when you photograph the buffalo; their dispositions are as ugly as their faces.

From here on is the most publicized and concentrated sightseeing area of the Black Hills. Turning east for a few miles (Alternate U. S. 16), and then north (known as Iron Mountain road) is the exciting entrance to Mt. Rushmore National Memorial.

Dramatic View
From the strategic focus of a series of tunnels there are occasional glimpses of the awesome monument. We found a night trip spectacularly beautiful as the tunnel exits framed the spotlighted faces of the enshrined U. S. presidents.

W. M. U. Circle 2 of the First Baptist Church at her home on Monday afternoon. Present were 11 members. A new member Mrs. C. W. Matthews, 2 visitors, Mrs. A. R. Underwood, W. M. U. president, and Mrs. Barham.

Mrs. J. M. Ingram offered the opening prayer and the business was conducted by the chairman, Mrs. Al Pyley. Mrs. Roy Stainton, assisted by Mrs. Frank Griford, Mrs. Pyley, Mrs. Ingram, Mrs. C. E. Willmore and Mrs. Mettie Robinson, concluded the study on "The Holy Spirit in Missions." The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Robinson.

B. W. C. Meets At Church

The Business Women's Christian Fellowship of the First Christian Church met on Monday evening at the church for the monthly supper meeting.

The meeting was opened with the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. B. C. Silvers was the leader for the missionary worship service on the topic "Path of Pilgrimage." The scripture reading was Luke 24. The mission study entitled "The mid-day East Cradle of Christianity" was in charge of Miss Elizabeth Francisco.

During the business session the following officers were elected: President, Miss Elizabeth Francisco.

Even second-time views of this "Shrine of Democracy" gives the same inner thrill that you get when the American flag is raised at the Olympic games.

For additional enjoyment while in the area known as the Norbeck Wildlife Preserve, drive past the Needles Eye and man-made Sylvan Lake, which mirrors the surrounding fabulous rock formations. From here you wind along the Needles Highway (State 87), surrounded by giant granite shafts—bewitching shapes of cathedral spires, organ pipes and castle battlements. The Magic Circle back to Rapid City is completed via U. S. 16.

(Next Week's Magic Circle: Lancaster—Pennsylvania's Dutch Country).

Magie Circle Travel Notes
Gala Black Hills Events
Pageantry, melodrama and rodeos make summertime a continual series of gala events for every member of the family in South Dakota's Black Hills (this week's Magic Circle trip).

With the emphasis on the exciting and lurid past, there also are very modern events scheduled to give the visitor a change of pace. Hot Springs will stage boat races July 20; also, on that and the following day, this town is to hold the Dakota Talent and Beauty Pageant. Custer celebrates Gold Discovery Days, July 25-27.

Deadwood whisks it up to start next month's calendar: from August 1-3 will be the Historic Pageantry Parade, featured by Sioux Indians in full regalia, and the annual Days of '48 Rodeo. Sturgis is to be the scene of Meade County's Fair and motorcycle races August 9 and 10. The Black Hills Range Days, rodeo and fair are set for August 14-17 in Rapid City.

disco: Vice President, Mrs. B. C. Silvers; Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. Alfred Cummings; Reporter, Mrs. L. J. Bryson; the meeting closed with the Missionary benediction prayer.

Mrs. Alfred Cummings will be the leader for July.

Mrs. J. R. Bemis and Mrs. Jim Morris spent Monday in Texarkana.

George Chisham has arrived from Fayetteville, N. C. to join Mrs. Cashman for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Strigling.

Mrs. J. O. Coleman has been the recent guest of Dr. and Mrs. George Pakis, Jr. and family in Little Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Homen of Hobbs, N. M. have been guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fay Gordon.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hirst spent Monday in Texarkana.

Making Music on Upbeat in United States

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Making music apart from just listening to it is on the upbeat. Sales of musical instruments, sheet music and instrumental accessories are expected to climb above the half-billion dollar level in America this year for the first time.

The National Ass'n. of Music trade shows here next week, says the big turnaround in interest in Merchants, which holds its music making music came in 1947 after years of decline or stagnant sales.

Sales in the recession year of 1958 totaled 445 million dollars, up 2 percent from 1957, according to W. T. Sutherland, president of the American Music Conference. This compares with 90 million dollars in 1941.

The Music Teachers National Ass'n. estimates there are more than 500,000 music teachers in the country, full or part time. Schools have about 23,000 orchestras and 45,000 bands.

The National Piano Manufacturers Ass'n. says that so far this year sales of pianos are running 32 percent over 1958 and in 1959 total should reach 200,000. Sales of organs are 10 percent higher. Band and orchestra instruments are up 35 to 30 percent.

The number of music makers in the land is estimated by the American Music Conference at 20 million persons, compared with 18½ million in 1947. The school-age group has increased in that time from 2½ million to 8½ million, with 350,000 more expected this year.

There are now some 1,500 community orchestras, some of them assemblies of business or professional groups. "One-third are formed in cities of 50,000 or less population."

Just before World War II, America appeared to some to be turning into a nation of sitters and listeners. Records, motion pictures, radio and TV seemed to threaten amateur musical activity. Outside activities were taking people out of their homes. Labor-saving devices led them to shy away from anything requiring work or learning.

Why the turnaround? Sutherland has some ideas. "People began turning to music as a release from mounting tensions of modern living."

Teachers have learned how to make studying music easier and less costly. Real advances in production tools have both improved the instruments and helped hold down prices.

Man Robs Liquor Store of $267

PORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—A robber with good timing took $267 from the woman operator of a liquor store here early today, a police report said.

Mrs. Colton Furrow, 35, told police the man who bound and gagged her and fled with the money, would have missed $235 in a cigar box if he had entered just a few minutes later. She said she was counting her money when the man entered.

Mrs. Furrow said the man ordered a bottle of vodka, then approached her and demanded money as she opened the cash register. She told police the robber pushed her to the floor, then tied her with towels, broke a telephone cord and fled after telling her a second man would come by in five minutes to free her.

guide on hand to explain the historical connections and guests will be left to take their own time and browse around as they wish. A ticket will be provided which entitles the holder to visit all of the places designated at any time during the day he or she wishes, and, at noon, for those who will want lunch, a meal will be provided as last year.

Last year all proceeds from the July 4th event were earmarked for the tavern construction, and these funds have been carefully kept for that purpose, and to them will be added the proceeds from this year's Independence Day.

All persons who are interested in the Washington Restoration program are cordially invited to be guests of the City of Washington on July 4th.

Mysterious Blast Heard Over Maine

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP)—A mysterious blast—apparently planes breaking the sound barrier—was reported heard the length of Maine today.

The reports evoked all sorts of rumors. One was that a big military plane had crashed and exploded. Another attributed the widely-heard noise to earth tremors.

There also were reports of minor property damage—broken windows, a buckled door and the like.

State police sent troopers to Carmel, 12 miles west of Bangor, to check out reports of a crash—possibly a B58 supersonic bomber. There are no such planes based in New England.

Dow Air Force Base in Bangor told state police that the plane suspected of crashing—it didn't identify it—was flying safely at 38,000 feet and the official opinion of the Air Defense Command is that the noise "was probably someone breaking the sound barrier."

The Western Observatory in Massachusetts said it had no record of an earthquake and also advanced the theory of a sonic boom.

At Augusta, the Federal Aviation Agency tower said high-speed aircraft were operating over Maine and the noises could "quite conceivably be associated with planes breaking the sound barrier."

Lutherans Study College Expansion

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The 1,000 delegates of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod today studied a proposal to spend more than 30 million dollars in six years to expand colleges and seminaries already valued at 144 million dollars.

The convention swung emphasis to this phase of its program after yesterday's opening session.

Dr. J. W. Behnken, 75, St. Louis, was expected to be re-elected to his ninth straight three year term as president. Delegates have voted but the count was delayed until today.

Prior to the vote, Dr. Behnken told the convention that the synod must adhere to "doctrinal unity" rather than to "doctrinal unity."

His talk seemed to indicate the 2½-million member synod would continue to remain independent of the Lutheran World Federation which affiliates four-fifths of the world's Lutherans.

Junior Chamber Names President

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Robert Clark Jr., 32, a Des Moines, Iowa, attorney is the new president of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Clark's election to the group's top office came at 1:15 a. m. today when his two remaining opponents withdrew from the race in the midst of the 11th ballot.

DOROTHY DIX

Stepmother Mourns Her "Wasted" Life

Dear Dorothy Dix:
Why must stepmothers go through so much? As a young girl I gave up my life and fun to cook, sew, wash and clean for another woman's children. Now they are grown and won't even come to see me. My health is ruined through hard work and grief. I send gifts and cards but get no reply. When I ask my husband what else I can do he tells me that after all, I'm not their mother. It seems the only married life so I could work for them—Mrs. R.

Dear Mrs. R.: Any young girl who marries a man with children is taking a big chance. Fortunately, they rarely experience a heartbreaking life like yours. Most children ready a stepmother's love and care with respect, at least, and usually they return sincere love. All you can do at this point is resign yourself to the stepchildren's indifference and be secure in your own assurance that you did a difficult job to the best of your ability. It's quite possible that their father married you chiefly to acquire a housekeeper. Well, the hard-working part of your life is over, now get out and have some fun. Don't sit home bemoaning fate; make friends, get into activities, get a job. Bitterness won't bring anything but a bad taste. Busyness is what you need.

Dear Dorothy Dix:
A few days ago my boy friend and I were invited to his grandmother's for dinner. After dessert, his mother, grandmother and I stayed at the table drinking our tea while the men left. My boy friend motioned for me to come sit with him on the sofa but I didn't think it was proper. He says I went with him and should have left the table when he did. Who is right?—Just Curious

Dear Curious: You were invited by his grandmother who, as your hostess, was entitled to first consideration. It would have been impolite to leave her at the table. You were quite right to sit and talk with the older women. For many young people have forgotten to be courteous to their elders.

Dear Dorothy Dix:
I am going with a girl who recently came from a foreign country. In my opinion, she has all the qualifications for being a good wife and mother. However, I have been told that educational differences jeopardize the possibility of a happy union between us.—Paul T.

Dear Paul: Your friends are dishing out a generous portion of hogwash. If two people can agree on the fundamentals of marriage, their educational backgrounds are unimportant. In fact, any good educational background should work for a better adjustment in marriage. This argument doesn't hold water, except if one of you has a marked educational advantage—for instance, if one of you never finished high school and the other has a string of college degrees.

Send your problem to DOROTHY DIX. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper.

Matter of FACT

On May 6, 1835, James Gordon Bennett issued the New York Herald, a four-page paper for which he himself had gathered, written and printed the news of the day before. It was both the first effort to "print the news while it was still new" and one of the first newspapers to be sold for a penny. Before that time, newspapers had been leisurely reviews, devoted to politics and government affairs.

Journey To Love

By VIRGINIA NIELSON
(C) 1959 by Virginia Nielson Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

and whispered, "Get down on the floor."

John traded places with Alex then, behind the wheel, and Alex put the car in motion. Crouched low, Kathie began to understand. The boat wasn't free; it was to be a hideout.

"As though he could read her thoughts, Alex said, 'It's nothing, Kathie. It's just being extra careful. We didn't dream anyone was watching the airport. Yet someone followed us to the bank—or had anticipated we would go there. I couldn't find anyone spying around the apartment, but I am going to take a few wild loops around town just in case someone is trying to follow us now. And I want you to keep out of sight.'"

This isn't really happening, Kathie thought. I'm not actually here, hiding on the floor of a man's car while he drives me through the streets of Honolulu. In a moment I'll wake up back on the farm and hear Uncle Joe calling me to get up.

It was very dark along the yacht basin and Alex said, excited laughter coloring his voice, "You can come up for air now, Kathie."

She climbed up on the seat gradually, her limbs cramped. They were driving down an unlighted dirt road. On their left were parked cars. On the right was the water, invisible but making faint slapping sounds against the pilings.

Only bobbing lights marked the boats, with here and there a lighted porthole, but dark as it was, Kathie could see that these were no flat scows of houseboats, but trim seagoing craft.

He grinned through the dusk and said, "She's the love of my life, you know. Ever think you'd be competing with a boat?"

Kathie drew a quick breath. "Me, Alex?"

He laughed, that excited note still in his voice, and Kathie began to lose her feeling of apprehension and to feel a high sense of adventure. After all, hadn't she spent hours back on the farm dreaming up adventures that were tame and dull compared with this?

"Here we are," Alex said abruptly, without answering her question.

Then gradually she made out a tiny pier about 12 inches wide extending out over the dark water. "My destiny's tied up here," Alex explained. "You stay here while I carry out some of the loot."

She sat in the car while he made several trips with boxes of groceries and small pieces of luggage. Across the dark water came the sound of laughter.

When he had her settled among the boxes, he took up the oars. She listened to the quiet plop plop they made as he rowed out between the dark and silent moored boats, and thought what a pleasant sound it was.

"The boat loomed a dark mass above them. He tied up along side. 'I'll go aboard first and put on the lights.'"

He clambered up and Kathie sat in the dinghy. She listened to the strange sounds around her, the scraps of the dinghy against the boat as the slow current washed it forward, back, the forward against the slap of the buoy rope against the water—increasingly, the faint mew of a kitten from some nearby boat.

Finally lights came on in the cabin and Alex came back, all-bowled against them. "Can you hand up the loot now?"

Matter of FACT

A series of pictures illustrating the conquest of England by the Normans was embroidered at the time on a strip of linen now called the Bayeux Tapestry. It is 231 feet long and 20 inches wide. It barely escaped destruction in the French Revolution, but it has been cherished since then. There are about 72 scenes remaining of the ones that originally composed the tapestry. It is preserved in the Bayeux Museum, France.

Nixon Says Public Will Be Outraged

CHICAGO (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today that public will be outraged by the action of some senators in the rejection of Lewis L. Strauss as a member of the Eisenhower Cabinet.

The Senate declined to confirm President Eisenhower's nomination of Strauss as secretary of commerce by a 49-46 margin. Democrats contributed all but two votes against Strauss.

Nixon said Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader in the Senate, may have won the victory but he will lose the war.

Nixon said he wouldn't want to impute any motives to Sen. Johnson, who has been mentioned as a possible Democratic presidential nominee.

"It is questionable," he added, "whether the Senate defeat of Strauss will help his (Johnson's) ambitions."

Highway Contracts Total $4.1 Million

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Highway Commission yesterday awarded contracts totaling $4,106,355 for six jobs and programmed another $2,387,000 in road and bridge projects.

The Commission approved payment of about $60,000 to the law firm of Mehlhoff, Smith and Williams of Little Rock for services and expenses on a $7,000,000 Helena Bridge bond issue, subject to approval by Mississippi and federal authorities.

The commission took no action on selection of a permanent highway director. It rejected Herbert Eldridge, who resigned several months ago. F. B. Red, Olive now with the Bureau of Public Roads, seems to be the most likely prospect. Acting director R. B. Winfrey has said he is "not an applicant" for the permanent job.

Bradley Opens Pink Tomato Festival

WARREN, Ark. (AP)—Bradley County's third annual Pink Tomato Festival opens here today with a parade and a picnic.

Gov. Orval F. Faubus and the current Miss Arkansas, Sally Miller of Pine Bluff, planned to ride in the parade.

Miss Pink Tomato will be crowned tomorrow night. The winner will receive a $150 college scholarship and a chance to compete in the Miss Arkansas contest next month at Hot Springs.

AMERICA AFLOAT

SMALL BOAT OWNERS GET TOP BENEFITS THIS YEAR

By WM. AYLOD MCKEOWN

Editor, Popular Boating
Distributed by NEA Service

"What's new in pleasure boating?" asked a friend just back from five years in Europe.

"What has changed since 1954?" Are boats better?

Better, more reliable, and easier to use, we were able to tell him. New chinees are pushing them faster and farther and require less maintenance. A look at the last five years shows a number of advantages for the boatman this summer.

Small boat winners have received the larger benefits. The outboard boatman can now start his motor by pushing a button, recharge his battery with a built-in generator, fill up the motor after a week-end, in salt water without fresh-water flush to prevent corrosion.

His hull may be light-molded ply, new marine plywood, aluminum or Fiberglas in the 14 to 16-foot sizes surveys show to be most popular.

Boat design has not changed radically, although modified sea and catamaran-type hulls are receiving new interest. Our friend is going to be surprised at the growing popularity of the time-tested sea skiff, now appearing in sizes from small runabout to large-cabin cruiser.

The overlapping planks of the lapstrake construction give a sturdy hull. The design has been proven by generations of Atlantic coast fishermen, including fish lovers who ventured many miles offshore to connect the big run runners of the "sunset fleet" during prohibition.

Outboard motors now push small-cabin cruisers at planing speed for water skiing. Inboard engines deliver much more power than five years ago. The power plants of American and foreign sports cars are taking to the water as marine conversions.

Inboard and outboard motors can be harnessed with a gear shift and throttle combined in a single control. All size craft go faster. Even houseboats are beginning to get around much more with the horsepower available.

Accessories have shown the greatest advance. The runabout's steering wheel, bilge pump, bumpers and cleats and lights may be of corrosion-free plastic.

A sailboat may have a hull of synthetics, with plastic paint, caulking compound, lightweight racing fittings and "sails" and lines developed from man-made materials.

Miracle fibers and fabrics have come of age afloat.

Nylon rope, tested skeptically a few years ago, is now considered a standard for mooring and docking lines, with its extra strength to hold a boat and elasticity to help absorb surges from wake and waves. Dacron can be relied on when strength without stretch is required.

The miniature transistor has helped the small boat owner to start to match his big boat brother's electronic aids to navigation, depth finder, radio telephone, radar and that dubious boating aid—television—can now be taken aboard.

Today's boatman need no longer rely on lung power to blow a fog horn or whistle.

The new frene-powered hand horn is signalling a boating era more pleasant, though possibly more noisy, than ever before.

Paper Mill Workers to Get Pay Hikes

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Workers at two Arkansas plants of the International Paper Co. will receive pay raises as the result of a two-year labor contract signed yesterday by the company and three unions.

The pact calls for a general increase of three per cent, with a minimum of seven cents an hour, the first year, and an increase of four per cent, with an eight cent minimum, the second year.

The contract also sets Dec. 28 as a seventh paid holiday.

International's hourly base rate now is $1.77. The company's Pine Bluff and Camden, Ark., mills are covered by the contract.

Matter of FACT

On May 6, 1885, James Gordon Bennett issued the New York Herald, a four-page paper for which he himself had gathered, written and printed the news of the day before. It was both the first effort to "print the news while it was still new" and one of the first newspapers to be sold for a penny. Before that time, newspapers had been leisurely reviews, devoted to politics and government affairs.

Says Come

It is Father's Day! May we honor the guy whose heart is as tender as a woman's... the fellow whose respect is as genuine as that of a mother. This nationally celebrated day for Father didn't come too soon. For Dad is the guy who dared the wiles of the forest and the death-dealing miseries of the prairie, to insure added comforts for Mom, and Sue, and Dan. The taming of the west is actually the story of gruff ole 'Pop' in his triumph over difficulty and danger to make a finer future for those he loved. He was the hardy pathmaker for our feet. Gifts for Father? Yes, but much better would be a gracious, kind word of thanks for all his sacrifices through the year. On this celebrated day, say a prayer to the great Father God, for happiness and comradeship that will soften the burdens of the remaining years, and make the last ones truly his most Golden Years.
